Youth with disabilities have strengths and are able to make decisions that are important to them. Families can enable and empower youth to communicate their strengths and needs.

In this workshop, families and youth can learn about:

- What Self-Determination is
- How to teach Self-Determination from an early age
- Specific activities that help youth with decision-making skills
- Where to find information about decision-making skills
- How youth with disabilities can bring their ideas into IEP meetings

Who should attend? Youth with disabilities, their families, school staff, other community members.
